

LEHR

Puri Jagannath, entrenched in centuries of spiritual significance, stands as a revered site, garnering governmental focus for ongoing maintenance and architectural enhancements at the central Puri Jagannath Temple. Regrettably, this concentrated attention results in the neglect of other temples with lesser pilgrimage importance. Visitors navigating towards the primary temple confront numerous challenges, including congestion, inadequate seating options for both elderly individuals and children, and the proliferation of unofficial retail establishments, contributing to a disarrayed street environment. Our innovative design endeavors to comprehensively address these fundamental issues, offering thoughtful solutions for seating, retail, and recreational amenities tailored to the needs of devotees. Moreover, our vision extends to capturing management attention, catering for improvements not only within the temple premises but also in its broader surroundings, fostering a holistic enhancement of the sacred space. The pavilion is designed with parametric roof in order to redirect and dissipate the strong wind coming from the sea. This design integrates the seating, retail and animal shelter into one cohesive entity.
